“One of the most exciting art experiences in the Portland area”
Brianna Wheeler – 2023 – Willamette Week

Artist Statement

Steven Ochs' artistic journey is one marked by profound discovery and introspection. From an early age, he recognized the immense power of imagination in shaping reality. This realization laid the groundwork for his exploration into the arts, eventually leading him to embrace Quantum Bayesianism (QBism). QBism resonated with Steven's long-held belief that our perceptions and beliefs are not mere reflections of reality, but active participants in its formation.

His primary artistic method, Stereo Layering, stands as a testament to the intricate dance between the mind and the quantum world. Through his work, Steven aims to transcend mere visual aesthetics, seeking instead to provoke a deeper cognitive and emotional engagement. Stereo Layering is more than an artistic technique for Steven; it is a portal into the dynamic relationship between the observer and the observed, bridging the internal world of the mind with the external quantum reality.

Steven's aspiration is to connect with collectors and individuals who share a QBist perspective, those who appreciate the intersection of art and science. He believes that his work offers a unique opportunity to explore and celebrate the beauty that emerges from our consciousness's profound impact on the world around us.

Inviting viewers to interact with his art, Steven encourages them to step beyond the role of passive observers and become active participants in a shared quantum experience. Through this engagement, he aims to illuminate the paths where art, science, and philosophy converge, revealing the intricate tapestry of reality that we co-create with every thought and perception.
